

Yayuan Zhao, PGY4, General

Dr. Yayuan Zhao attained his medical degree from Xi'an Jiaotong University and completed his PhD in Urology from Peking University. Following the completion of his studies, he held the position of a Genitourinary pathologist at Peking University First Hospital. Presently, Dr. Zhao is in the fourth year of his residency in Diagnostic and Clinical Pathology.

Here are some of the reasons Yayuan was chosen as Resident of the Month (As quoted from the nomination letter):

“His exceptional qualities as a resident physician have had a profound impact on the growth, morale, and well-being of his junior colleagues. His kindness and approachability have fostered an environment of trust where they feel comfortable seeking guidance and support.”

“During his tenure as chief resident, he demonstrated exceptional organization, approachability, and a commitment to addressing resident issues. He consistently highlighted the concerns and challenges faced by residents, making sure their voices were heard.”

“Not only does Dr. Zhao possess a positive attitude and exceptional teamwork skills, which are of paramount importance in healthcare, but his diagnostic abilities are also excellent. His ability to reach a diagnosis within a matter of minutes inspires me to be equally efficient during my own residency.”

Congratulations, Yayuan!